IPS Event Celebrates Community Partnerships

The Individual Placement and Support \(IPS\) program exists to help individuals in their recovery by obtaining their career goals. This mission would fundamentally not be possible without the employers who believe in both the program and the notion that diversifying their workforce is an asset and privilege. On January 19th community partners, staff, and clients came together at AllHealth Network's Wellness Center in Littleton to celebrate these partnerships.

There are several outstanding business partners who have employed or currently employ IPS program participants and enable the program and its clients to thrive, including Life Care Center, Littleton, Goodwill Industries of Denver, Good Electronics, Goodwill Industries of Denver, E-Commerce, E-Science Labs, Service System Associates, Arc Thrift Store, Woof in Boots, Visiting Nurses Association, Libby Bortz, Mile High WorkShop, and others.

Additionally, community development organizations, such as the Division of Vocational Rehabilitation, Ability Connection Colorado, and the Colorado Office of Behavioral Health are integral to the program's success. IPS also depends on the support and collaboration of counselors, medication providers, peer specialists, and a treatment team to support the career goals of the individuals they serve.

Smart-Girl Annual Luncheon Highlights

Nearly 200 attendees shared in the spirit of Smart-Girl at the annual luncheon earlier this month.

Following the event's theme, "Be Bold, Be You," emcee Kyle Dyer led a dynamic program which featured presentations by two Smart-Girl Guides and a captivating keynote address by communications expert Shari Harley.

Co-chairs Rebecca Weiss and Kate Horle

The event would not be possible without the support of generous sponsors: Anthem Blue Cross Blue Shield; Citywide Banks; New West Physicians; Honnen Equipment; Kendra Scott Jewelry; the Diecidue Family Foundation; Alma Lantz, Kris Quine, Debra and Chuck McKenney; Holland & Knight; Marilyn and Stuart Spinner and Saskia Young.

Smart-Girl teaches middle-school girls social emotional skills, which enable them to understand and manage emotions and set and achieve positive goals. They learn to empathize with others and establish and maintain positive relationships and most importantly they learn to make responsible decisions.

"I can't imagine my life without it. Thank you all for coming and for supporting this program that has changed my life and continues to change the lives of girls in our community," said Smart-Girl Guide and event presenter Allie Sawyers.

The 2017 Smart-Girl annual luncheon raised over $45,000 which will be used to provide this critical program to the more than 30 facilities served in the Denver metro area.

Psychosocial Rehabilitation Group Outcomes

AllHealth
Network's psychosocial rehabilitation
(PSR) team offers individual, family, and group counseling with a focus on helping individuals learn and practice skills that will lead them to successfully manage their mental illness and reach their recovery goals.

In addition, the program offers occupational therapy assessments to identify barriers to living successfully on their own, suggestions for managing memory deficits, as well as strategies for successfully returning to work or school. There were 1,913 unique clients who received a total of 18,808 services through one of these PSR programs in 2016.

AllHealth Network seeks immediate feedback from clients to determine how helpful a group is or if programming needs to be changed. Clients have the option of completing a survey on a computer station or paper depending on their preference. Additionally, the survey captures key recovery indicators based on the Stages of Recovery Instrument (STORI), which measures recovery from serious mental illness. A summary of 2016 results demonstrate that 85% or more of clients completing the survey were working successfully towards recovery indicators such as reflection, community, resiliency, skill building, and support.
